Welcome!

Our committee is thrilled that you are joining us for this year's PreMed/PrePA Conference. This year's theme is 'Blazing New Trails in Medicine.'

While in breakout rooms, and throughout the conference, we ask that you remain muted while speakers are presenting and if you feel comfortable, turn on your video so we can see one another and make this conference as interactive as possible!

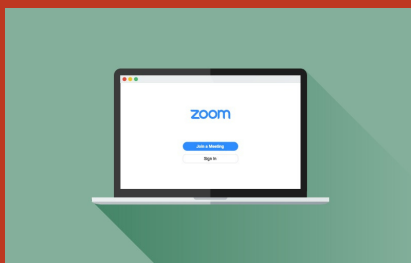

Thank you for joining us! Enjoy!

Zoom Instructions

Opening & Keynote

9:00 - 9:50 am

"The Winding Road of a Career"

The paths we take to points in our lives are rarely linear, yet the curves are not always apparent to others. Dr. Rachel Hess will talk about her path to academic medicine and how it has swerved along the way.

Presenter Bio:

Dr. Rachel Hess is a General Internist who serves as the Chief of the Division of Health System Innovation and Research at the University of Utah, and a professor of both Internal Medicine and Population Health Sciences at the School of Medicine. Her research has been helping find ways to better patient-focused outcomes with an emphasis on improving people's health-related quality of life. Dr. Hess is blazing new trails in medicine in the way she is delivering quality healthcare to her patients, leading cutting-edge research projects, and educating the next generation of physicians.
